

CAPTAIN HOOK'S REVENGE

The Drama Group's pantomime this year was 'Captain Hook's Revenge' by Richard Coleman.

Directed by Natalie White and produced by Maggie Kwaan it was entertaining, but a little confusing! We were warned it would be different, and luckily there were recognisable elements of the much loved story of Peter Pan.

The show started with a lively 'skeleton' dance by the Junior Dancers from the Di Ruddick Dance Class, before we met a formidable Captain Hook (the magnificent Graham Bavin) and his band of pirates, including Smee and Sharkey (Sue White and Jane Young) who snarled a lot and looked very fierce.

Then we met the delightful Peter Pan (Casey Norlin), with Tonkerbell (Sue Riep), several Red Indians and a crocodile (Gary Bates).

The Darling Family were represented by Dotty Darling (Dave Kennedy), Michael (Harriet Padina), and Wendy (Tasmin Martin-Young).

There were many other creatures and characters all heading for Never Never Land....or part of it....in a forestor somewhere!

Anyway they all lived happily ever after, even Captain Hook, who took a shine to Dotty Darling.

The team had worked hard to produce a 'fun' pantomime. There was a huge selection of costumes from Natalie White, Ellen Moore and Beverley Dowden.

(I am sure I spotted my favourite dress on a coat hanger in the Darling's shop!)

The Stage Manager was John Stillwell with Kevin Benstead and his team in charge of set construction and special effects. Accordion music was played by Margaret Sayer.

Other back stage tasks and front of house were the responsibility of members of the Drama Group.
